Two small streams flowed from densely wooded hills and murmuring across the stage, sank into the silence of a beaver pool. A log cabin with its oiled paper window, a rough sawbuck by the door, sooty pots and kettles and a tripod by the smoke stained rocks, gave the hint of human occupancy. The stage was dark when the play commenced save for the glow of the fireflies which flitted here and there among the pines and hovered where the streams had bathed the banks with moisture. Soft woodland music filled the air, and gave background to the chanting voices of the trees. When fireflies, music and voices ceased, the audience became aware of the dim outlines of the stage in the half light, which grew in intensity as the play progressed until when the camp fire was kindled, the surrounding spruce trees were tinged with a warm and ruddy glow.
